

Blue Hills at Round Top

by Nina Smith

For a town with roughly 88 residents, you might be surprised to hear that Round Top is home to one of the world's largest antique shows. From March 19 through April 3, some local, national, and international shoppers will travel from near and far to attend Round Top's semi-annual Antique Festival, where collectables and treasures await around every corner.

About three years ago, Michael Peters and Dr. Milton Grin transformed their 27 acres of Round Top countryside into the magnificent, multi-purpose venue known as Blue Hills. This beautiful rural atmosphere offers beauty and elegance for every budget, every taste, and every eye.

Two beautiful stallion statues stand at the entrance, making this venue off of State Highway 237 between Round Top and Carmine hard to miss. Blue Hills has six open-air barns that house a variety of vendors offering unique items. In addition to the barns, guests can peruse antiques in the two air-conditioned showrooms, and then get their fill to eat at the adjacent restaurant offering the world famous La Grange Methodist Men's Bar-B-Que. You must try it for yourself to believe it! They also offer La Grange's own Connie's Espresso for a great morning start or afternoon pick-me-up. Free Admission and Parking Shoppers also appreciate the luxury of Blue Hills indoor, air-conditioned restrooms that are rumored to be the cleanest and nicest in the area.
